Local government agencies, such as the County, City, School Districts, Sheriff's Office and other public organizations may participate. Small businesses such as farms, mechanic shops, delivery service, recycling outlets and others who generate less than ten tires per week.

Illegally dumped tires may also be collected from landowners, clean-ups, community beautification projects, non-profit clean up collection days in conjunction with household hazardous waste collection days and county or City clean-up of roadside tire dumps and other areas clean-ups where the illegally dumped tires number 100 or less (larger piles are eligible for clean-up in the States' Abatement Program).
